

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

There is disclosed an apparatus in which a modulation method differs between information of a cryptograph associated information or distinction
5 associated information region, and information of user data regions, and a channel bit length also differs.